

Croc and Bird by Kiran, Year 3

On the soft, yellow sand lay two white eggs next to each other. One hatched quietly but the other hatched loudly and they both popped out of the eggs. One was called Crocodile (Croc for short) but the other was called Bird.

"Mm," Croc said "I'm hungry" so he started looking for a large blue crab.

Over time, Croc and Bird grew bigger. Every day they practised flying, climbing and singing. They loved each other. "Are we Brothers?" said bird.

"I think so," said Croc.

One day they were out hunting and the river carried them swiftly to a lake which was full of crocodiles. By the side of the lake there was a tree full of colourful birds. Bird went to the birds and Croc went to the crocodiles. Croc sang a beautiful song. Bird caught a buffalo.

One dark evening, Bird left his family and flew up into the starry sky that was like shiny sparkly, diamonds. Bird found Croc perched in a tree. They slept peacefully.
